instinct and reason

The Open - Round 8

It seems the top players felt sorry for me having to write these reports, and so made sure I did not have too much to say about the top two board games in Round 8; both Johansen-Zhao and Bluvshtein-Rogers were drawn inside an hour! Zhao, in particular, was not complaining about this, as he maintained his outright tournament lead by a full point on 7/8; while Bluvshtein, Rogers and Johansen (all 6/8) had to wait on the result of Vincent Suttor vs Dejan Antic to see if Dejan could overtake them. And boy, did they make them wait, as Vincent (White) won first a pawn and then a whole exchange, but then got nervous; and in the end, with Dejan's knight becoming a very strong piece on e5, only two pawns each and queens still on, Vincent did well to hang on in mutual time pressure for a draw in easily the last game to finish. So Antic joined the group of all four GMs on 6/8, where they were joined by Dusan Stojic who beat Michael Wei as Black when his powerful e3 pawn led to an extra pawn and eventually a crushing attack. Vincent was joined on 5.5/8 by Igor Goldenberg, who won piece and game against Andrew Brown; Malcolm Tredinnick, who won central pawns and the game against Jose Escribano; and Michael Morris, whose Bxa5 removing the guard tactic won pawn and game against Zhigen Lin.

The Major - Round 5

Draw city in Round 5 surprisingly and suddenly made the event a two horse race: five draws out of eleven games after there had been only six in the whole event so far, and none in the previous round! Neither Brian Thomas nor Sherab Guo-Yuthok were complaining, as they guaranteed themselves the top two places by both winning to reach 4.5/5. Brian, despite being a pawn ahead, had a very complicated bishop and pawn ending against Mos Ali; it may not have been winning, but he played it better in time pressure and did eventually win. Sherab, on the other hand, had it somewhat easier, winning with a pawn fork against Yi Yuan; and then watching as Shaun Press' attack could not break through against John Fedec (perpetual check draw), and Yita Choong also drew a minor piece ending against Oscar Hellmann. Amazingly, this left eight players equal third on 3/5 going into the last round, with these four, Yi and Mos being joined by Douglas Stones (whose two minor pieces and pawns beat David Webster's rook) and Marc Vlietstra (who won a king and pawn ending which should have been drawn against Sunny Yoon).

The Seniors - Round 5

With a half point lead in the bag, the second last round was clearly critical; not just for Leon Kempen and David Lovejoy (playing each other), but also for Brian Jones lurking menacingly half a point behind! BJ did his part by defeating Tony Baldwin with the White bits; the game was fairly even for quite a while, but then Brian won a pawn and made it count decisively when he got two connected passed pawns on the c and d files. Phil Viner also won a pawn from Joe Marks, eventually winning his game in a longish ending. In a game not too vital for the final standings, Gus Korda won with the Black pieces against Karl Galli. But of course, the Kempen-Lovejoy game was crucial to the final outcome of the tournament; and Leon won a good game to give himself very good chances of outright first place with some pretty tactics and a nice positional exchange sacrifice leading to winning central connected passed pawns and mate!
